

INFO * DATA * AD-PRICES

Anno2010.com strives to provide unbiased facts and information. NO comments will be allowed on this website -- only facts about political candidates at federal and state levels. This is not a site for lobbying – it is to inform the voters! Information allows them to make an educated decision at the election 2010. Knowing the records of the candidates, and their approach to important issues, should help the voters form that decision.

Independents, Republicans, Libertarians, Democrats—all voters should, based on the unbiased facts, be able to decide if they want to support and vote as and for a "true, real" American or as and for a supporter of "another" America. I'm sure, that there are more "true, real" Americans out there than supporter of "another" America.

You, all of us... we have a chance to bring this great country back on track at the election 2010. We can insure politicians are elected who will obey the Constitution, who work for their constituents, and who will keep this great country free—making it prosperous again.

Several Internet marketing activities (blog writing, viral marketing, linking, etc.) will steer traffic to anno2010.com . Approximately 4 weeks after launching the website we already had 18000+ PV and 50+ incoming links and had a TOP10 organic Google-ranking for more than 20 keyword-phrases!

The already achieved organic rankings as well as the PV until now speak volumes – especially for a brandnew website!

Anno2010 will be updated on a regular basis (votes, news, information, etc.).

Campaign-manager from candidates, who run in the primary, already contacted us, informed us that their candidate is in the race and asked to be listed on the page – anno2010 is already known!
